FRANCIS A. HANKS has wrought zealously and effectively in gaining his present status as one of the representative agriculturists and stock-growers of Utah County, where his productive activities are staged in the Salem district.

Mr. Hanks is able to revert to England as the place of his nativity and ancestral history. He was born in fine old Gloucestershire, January 5, 1861, and is a son of George and Eliza (Davis) Hanks. He was about eight or nine years of age when his parents, who had been converted to the faith of the Latter Day Saints, left their native land to become pioneer settlers in Utah, where they established their residence in Utah County, the remainder of their lives having been passed in this state and the father having been a farmer and stock-grower by vocation.

Francis A. Hanks was reared to maturity in the Salem community of Utah County and his early education was here received in the district school of the period. During the long intervening years he has not found it either expedient or a matter of desire to sever his allegiance to the basic industries of agriculture and stock-growing, of which he has continued a resourceful and successful exponent in the Salem district of the county, where he is the owner of a well improved farm estate. He has been a stockholder of the Salem Irrigation Company and has otherwise given support to measures and enterprise tending to advance the general communal welfare. As a loyal and appreciative member of the Church of Latter Day Saints he has served two missions, the first having been in the eastern states, during the period of 1897-1900, and the second one, of six months' duration, having been in states of the Northwest, in 1918. He served as second counselor to Bishop D. R. Taylor, of Salem, from 1910 to 1922, and in the latter year was chosen a member of the High Council, under President H. A. Gardner, of the Palmyra Stake.

In January, 1880, Mr. Hanks was united in marriage to Miss Matilda Sheen, daughter of Robert and Eliza Sheen, of Payson, Utah County, they having come to Utah from Glocestershire, England. Jeanette H., eldest of the children of Mr. and Mrs. Hanks, is the wife of Frank Davis, who is a son of Frank and Olivia (Evans) Davis. David A., next in order of birth, married Miss Donna Soren, daughter of Ole Soren. Ophelia is the wife of Samuel H. Taylor, of Salem, and their children are eight in number: Clawson C., Lorenzo, Lee, Reed, Eldon, Retta, Ellen and Leonard. Louisa is the wife of Cleon Taylor, son of Walter and Annetta Taylor, of Salem, and their children are: Lloyd, Ruby, Clifford, Mary, Louise, Rex and Ray. Heber E., next younger of the children, married Miss Hannah Tompkins, daughter of the late George Tompkins, of Spanish Fork, Utah County, and the four children of this union are Norma, Glenn, Dean and Heber T. Joseph Emmett, the next younger son, married Miss Bernice Wilson, daughter of William and Sadie Wilson, of Payson, and their children are William (familiarly called Junior), Priscilla, Bryce and Beverly. Matilda is the wife of Earl Haskell, son of Chester and Elizabeth J. Haskell, of Payson, and their two children are Francis and Lena. Ernest C., youngest of the children, married Miss Sarah Berinson, daughter of the late Gilbert and Sarah E. Berinson, of Spanish Fork, and the children of this union are Carroll, Ernest G. and Richard. Three of Mr. Hanks' sons served on missions, David A. Hanks, Joseph Emmett and Ernest C.

FRANCIS A. HANKS has wrought zealously and effectively in gaining his present status as one of the representative agriculturists and stock-growers of Utah County, where his productive activities are staged in the Salem district.

Mr. Hanks is able to revert to England as the place of his nativity and ancestral history. He was born in fine old Gloucestershire, January 5, 1861, and is a son of George and Eliza (Davis) Hanks. He was about eight or nine years of age when his parents, who had been converted to the faith of the Latter Day Saints, left their native land to become pioneer settlers in Utah, where they established their residence in Utah County, the remainder of their lives having been passed in this state and the father having been a farmer and stock-grower by vocation.

Francis A. Hanks was reared to maturity in the Salem community of Utah County and his early education was here received in the district school of the period. During the long intervening years he has not found it either expedient or a matter of desire to sever his allegiance to the basic industries of agriculture and stock-growing, of which he has continued a resourceful and successful exponent in the Salem district of the county, where he is the owner of a well improved farm estate. He has been a stockholder of the Salem Irrigation Company and has otherwise given support to measures and enterprise tending to advance the general communal welfare. As a loyal and appreciative member of the Church of Latter Day Saints he has served two missions, the first having been in the eastern states, during the period of 1897-1900, and the second one, of six months' duration, having been in states of the Northwest, in 1918. He served as second counselor to Bishop D. R. Taylor, of Salem, from 1910 to 1922, and in the latter year was chosen a member of the High Council, under President H. A. Gardner, of the Palmyra Stake.

In January, 1880, Mr. Hanks was united in marriage to Miss Matilda Sheen, daughter of Robert and Eliza Sheen, of Payson, Utah County, they having come to Utah from Glocestershire, England. Jeanette H., eldest of the children of Mr. and Mrs. Hanks, is the wife of Frank Davis, who is a son of Frank and Olivia (Evans) Davis. David A., next in order of birth, married Miss Donna Soren, daughter of Ole Soren. Ophelia is the wife of Samuel H. Taylor, of Salem, and their children are eight in number: Clawson C., Lorenzo, Lee, Reed, Eldon, Retta, Ellen and Leonard. Louisa is the wife of Cleon Taylor, son of Walter and Annetta Taylor, of Salem, and their children are: Lloyd, Ruby, Clifford, Mary, Louise, Rex and Ray. Heber E., next younger of the children, married Miss Hannah Tompkins, daughter of the late George Tompkins, of Spanish Fork, Utah County, and the four children of this union are Norma, Glenn, Dean and Heber T. Joseph Emmett, the next younger son, married Miss Bernice Wilson, daughter of William and Sadie Wilson, of Payson, and their children are William (familiarly called Junior), Priscilla, Bryce and Beverly. Matilda is the wife of Earl Haskell, son of Chester and Elizabeth J. Haskell, of Payson, and their two children are Francis and Lena. Ernest C., youngest of the children, married Miss Sarah Berinson, daughter of the late Gilbert and Sarah E. Berinson, of Spanish Fork, and the children of this union are Carroll, Ernest G. and Richard. Three of Mr. Hanks' sons served on missions, David A. Hanks, Joseph Emmett and Ernest C.